ABSTRACTS AND SPEAKERS

Complete information for the concurrent and poster sessions—including titles, presenters and coauthors, and abstracts—will be available early in the summer. You can use the ASBH conference app or mobile website to decide which paper, panel, workshop, and poster presentations to attend and build your own schedule in advance. You can also view floor plans of the exhibit hall and maps of Washington, DC. Watch the ASBH website for more information.

ABOUT ASBH

ASBH is a multidisciplinary not-for-profit organization dedicated to promoting an exchange of ideas and fostering multidisciplinary, interdisciplinary, and interprofessional scholarship, research, teaching, policy development, professional development, and collegiality among people engaged in all endeavors related to clinical and academic bioethics and the health-related humanities. The more than 1,800 members of ASBH are healthcare professionals, teachers, consultants, and others who have an interest in the fields of bioethics and humanities.

PRECONFERENCE SESSIONS

Thursday, October 6

8 am–Noon

Navigating Federal Funding for Bioethics Research: From Soup to Nuts (001)

E. Charlisce Caga-anan, JD MA, National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, MD
Liza Dawson, PhD, National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, Bethesda, MD
Kelly Edwards, PhD, University of Washington, Seattle, WA
Karin Helmers, PhD, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, MD
Maria Merritt, PhD, Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health, Baltimore, MD
Helene Starks, PhD MPH, University of Washington, Seattle, WA

The complex and shifting landscape of federal funding makes it challenging for new and experienced applicants alike to know how best to position an application for an empirical or conceptual research project within the broad range of biomedical and clinical bioethics scholarship. The design, structure, and methodologies used in bioethics research differ significantly from those of most other scientific projects, yet all must conform to the same grantsmanship standards. This interactive workshop, facilitated by experienced federal program officers and funded bioethics researchers, will provide tools and insights for planning a bioethics research project, being creative in framing a project, and understanding the grant application process, including peer review. Panelists will frame the issues and opportunities for both junior and mid-career bioethicists and give tailored feedback to participants on their current research projects and ideas.

8 am–Noon

Opening the Black Box of Ethical Analysis—Generating and Strengthening Ethical Arguments and Counterarguments to Improve the Quality of Ethics Consultation (002)

David J. Alfandre, MD, National Center for Ethics in Health Care, New York, NY
Kenneth A. Berkowitz, MD, VA National Center for Ethics in Health Care, New York, NY
Barbara L. Chanko, MBA RN, VA National Center for Ethics in Health Care, New York, NY
Lisa Lehmann, MD PhD, VA National Center for Ethics in Health Care, Washington, DC

This workshop offers a learner-accessible approach to the development of a core competence in healthcare ethics consultation and aims to demystify the “black box” of ethical analysis by teaching and demonstrating how to evaluate evidence and arguments for and against different options as part of a consultation. Working in groups, participants will apply the ethical analysis framework and learn to categorize an ethical analysis according to three types of standard rationales: credo, consequence, and comparison.

8 am–Noon

Conflict Resolution for the Clinical Setting (003)

Haavi Morreim, JD PhD, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, TN

This workshop provides basic skills for conflict resolution in the clinical setting for use in difficult conversations, coaching, negotiation, facilitation, assisted negotiation, and bioethics mediation. Engaging in practice exercises based on common clinical confrontations, participants will learn techniques—managing expectations, normalizing, active listening, verbal mirroring, reframing, and affect labeling—for building trust and enabling those in conflict to come to their own agreements. The Joint Commission finds that communication problems underlie at least 70% of sentinel events and now requires all healthcare organizations to have processes for addressing conflict. With proper training and skills, ethics committees and consultants may be well-positioned to help implement the system-wide conflict resolution processes now being promoted by bioethicists and healthcare lawyers alike.

9:30 am–Noon

Tour of the National Geographic Museum (004) The Greeks: Agamemnon to Alexander the Great

Join your ASBH colleagues on a guided tour through 5,000 years of Greek culture in this world-class exhibit celebrating kings, scholars, poets, and philosophers. More than 500 priceless treasures—many of which have never been displayed outside of Greece—reveal how the ancient Greeks saw themselves, their society, and their gods. The exhibit highlights how Greek culture shapes the arts, science, medicine (think Hippocratic Oath!), philosophy, and theater. During the bus ride to and from the museum, Robert Baker, chair of the ASBH History of Medical Ethics Affinity Group, and Susan Lederer, professor of history of medicine and bioethics at the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health, will engage participants in a discussion of this once-in-a-lifetime experience. The fee covers the cost of transportation, the museum entrance fee, and a guided tour. All participants are required to pay the fee and travel as a group (though you'll also have a half hour at the museum on your own). Space is limited, and reservations will be honored on a first-come, first-served basis.

The preconference sessions are extra-fee events. Please see boxes D and E on the registration form for information about fees.

Special Session

Reflection from the Nation's Capital: Looking to the Future of National Bioethics Advisory Bodies

Ruth Faden, PhD MPH, Berman Institute of Bioethics, Baltimore, MD
Christine Grady, PhD RN FAAN, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, MD
Jason Schwartz, PhD, Yale School of Public Health, New Haven, CT
Nicolle Strand, JD, Presidential Commission for the Study of Bioethical Issues, Washington, DC

National bioethics advisory bodies have existed in the United States since the 1970s, turning small-scale conversations about bioethics at the bedside and the lab bench into national conversations. Dozens of prominent bioethicists and experts from an array of disciplines have answered the call to serve. The Presidential Commission for the Study of Bioethical Issues devoted its two final meetings to consideration of how bioethics advisory bodies in the United States and elsewhere have operated and have informed public policy. During this session, prominent bioethicists will consider the history of bioethics advisory bodies, offer lessons for the future, and invite discussion with the audience.

5:15–6:30 pm

Welcome Plenary Session

Doubling Time: Chronicles of a Cancer Insider

Julie Saba, MD PhD, Children's Hospital Oakland Research Institute, Oakland, CA

The distance between doctor and patient is as small as the distance between the doctor's mouth uttering a diagnosis and the patient's ears. Empathy is a crucial aspect of doctoring and, being human, doctors will sooner or later seek empathy as patients. As an oncologist and cancer researcher who also has leukemia, the presenter has scrutinized the condition from every angle and will share her alternating perspectives as she moves forward on all fronts.

Meet-the-Professor Session

The Meet-the-Professor session provides an opportunity for students and early-career scholars to share breakfast and conversation with distinguished faculty members. Seats are available to meeting registrants on a first-come, first-served basis. Application forms will be available in July, and confirmations will be mailed in September. Watch the ASBH website or call 847.375.4745 for more information. Don't miss this chance to confer with a leader in the field of bioethics and the medical humanities.

Consensual vs. Coercive Mental Health Treatments: New Manifestations of an Old Dilemma

Paul S. Appelbaum, MD, New York State Psychiatric Institute, New York, NY

Coercive approaches date to the very beginnings of organized mental health treatment. Despite the expectation of reformers in the last third of the twentieth century that coercive approaches would wither away, they have not disappeared and may not even have diminished. This presentation looks at the practice of coercive interventions, the justifications offered, and the likely future of nonconsensual approaches to mental health care.

Perinatal Hospice and Palliative Care: Continuing a Pregnancy When a Baby's Life Is Expected to Be Brief

Amy Kuebelbeck, Freelance Writer, Saint Paul, MN

After receiving a prenatal diagnosis that their baby has a life-limiting condition, some parents wish to continue the pregnancy and embrace whatever time they may have with their child, even if it is only the time before the birth or a few minutes after the birth. This relatively new patient population can be supported through the innovative model of perinatal hospice and palliative care, a compassionate and practical response to one of the most heartbreaking challenges of prenatal testing. The presenter will share her own story and offer insights through the words of many parents who have walked this path.

CAPITOL HILL ATTRACTIONS

Union Station houses 35 places to grab a quick lunch before joining your ASBH affinity group meeting. With its mix of eye-popping Beaux Arts and classical architecture, it will serve attendees as a one-stop destination for eating, shopping, and sight-seeing.

Within half a mile of the ASBH meeting hotel, the U.S. Botanic Garden is home to more than 10,000 varieties of orchids. The Botanic Garden also boasts primordial plants, medicinal plants, an exotic jungle, and a tropical rainforest.

Senate Park (just steps from the ASBH meeting hotel) is divided into two distinct sections. The lower section features a shallow reflecting pool flanked by wide pathways. The upper section, centered on a large fountain, a plaza, and a tree-lined lawn, connects to the Senate and Capitol grounds.

ASBH MEMBERSHIP

Individual: Individual membership in ASBH is open to all people with an interest in health care from disciplines such as philosophy, medicine, nursing, health policy, history, law, literature, and religion. Individual members receive all privileges and benefits of membership, including the right to vote and hold office in the society.

Student: Full-time undergraduate and graduate students may apply for student membership in ASBH. Proof of full-time student status is required. Student members receive all the privileges and benefits of regular members.

Affiliate: Institutions, organizations, associations, departments, networks, or companies such as publishers that are interested in bioethics and the health-related humanities are eligible for affiliate membership. Affiliate membership includes annual meeting registration for one person and discount opportunities for advertising and exhibiting through ASBH.

Benefits

- Discount on annual meeting registration
- Discounts on scholarly journals and publications
- Participation in affinity groups
- Opportunities for networking
- Online membership directory
- ASBH e-mail discussion groups
- Discount on members' mailing labels

REGISTRATION

The full registration fee includes

- the Thursday evening reception
- all educational sessions (excluding preconference workshops)
- continental breakfasts
- refreshment breaks.

Member Registration

You must be an ASBH member in good standing at the time you register to take advantage of the discounted member rate.

Join and Register

You can become an ASBH member and register for the conference at the reduced member rate. Check the join-and-register option and the appropriate membership category on the registration form.

Student Registration

If you are enrolled full time in a degree program, you may register at the student rate. A letter from a university department confirming full-time student status must accompany your registration. If you wish to register on site at the student rate without a letter from a university department confirming full-time student status, you will be required to provide a valid credit card number at the registration desk and a confirmation letter from a university within 2 weeks of the conference. If ASBH does not receive a confirmation letter by October 24, 2016, your credit card will be charged the difference between the student and the applicable member or non-member registration rate.

Guest Pass

A guest pass is required if a spouse, domestic partner, or other family member wishes to accompany a registered attendee to plenary sessions and the exhibit hall.

Deadlines

The early registration deadline is September 6, 2016. You are encouraged to register by this date to take advantage of the early registration discount. The final registration deadline is September 30, 2016. After that date, you must call ASBH Member Services at 847.375.4745 before mailing or faxing your registration form. Please keep a copy of your registration form for your records.

AMERICAN SOCIETY FOR BIOETHICS AND HUMANITIES
18TH ANNUAL MEETING

OCTOBER 6–9, 2016

Hyatt Regency Washington on Capitol Hill
Washington, DC

Washington, DC, was named “America’s coolest city” in 2014 by Forbes and the “top city to visit” in 2015 by Lonely Planet. The city has it all: an international feel, national landmarks, and local flavor. Abounding with arts and culture, the city is also becoming a foodie town, with mouth-watering menus from celebrity, award-winning, and home-grown chefs. And many of DC’s iconic attractions, like the Smithsonian Institution and the National Gallery of Art, are free. Away from the celebrated sights, in neighborhoods like Capitol Hill, Washington unwinds into a fascinating network of communities with fun bars and restaurants, welcoming boutiques, quaint art galleries, and lush parks and gardens.
